

Dhyara Lounge

We have a lounge, where there is a breakfast and dinner menu and a special coffee menu, and we show the user a page, so at first he chooses what he wants and on the basis of that we show him the menu. After that, the person enters the reservation data, such as the number of people and whether there are children or not, then the customer chooses the items he wants and we print the invoice for the customer, and if it exceeds a certain price, we provide him with a list of offers.